"Some day I'm going to own a Roadmaster"

ONE thing that interests us mightily is the fact that so many people are stepping up, when they buy automobiles.

We've been looking at surveys, and it seems that just about everyone wants a better car than the one he's now driving.

So we know how you feel, and we'd like to help you make your dreams come true.

We'd like you to discover how fine a fine car can be.

We'd like you to stretch out in the room of a ROADMASTER—feel the luxury of its double-depth cushions—stroke the fine texture of its fabrics.

We'd like you to know the proud levelness of its ride—and its gentle obedience to your hand on the wheel.

We'd like to show you the many extras this custom-built Buick provides—at no extra charge when we come to make out a bill of sale.

But above all, we'd like you to experience two thrills found exclusively in ROADMASTERS.

One is the smooth might of its Fireball Engine. The other is the supreme simplicity of Dynaflo Drive, which is, incidentally, one of the many features included in the price.

We try to hold down our enthusiasm in talking about this masterful beauty.

We might claim—you'll find more room—more comfort—more luxury—a smoother ride—more conveniences—more thrill in a ROADMASTER than in any other car in the fine-car field.

But why spoil the thrill of discovery? Come find out for yourself how completely a 1951 ROADMASTER fulfills the dreams of the car you hope sometime to own.

And let us whisper something to you: The cost of making this step to ROADMASTER ownership is less than most people believe.

Equipment, accessories, trim and more are subject to change without notice.

Danish

in Korea

Denmark's contribution to the United Nations effort in Korea is the fully manned hospital ship "Jutlandia," formerly a passenger liner on the North Atlantic run. The ship, now in Korean waters caring for U.N. wounded personnel, has space for 300 patients and its staff of medical and administrative volunteers numbers one hundred. Here, Commodore Kai Hammerich, commander of the Danish ship (left), discusses his work with Admiral Sohn of the Korean Navy.

Pusan, Korea — Nurses and doctors aboard the Danish hospital ship "Jutlandia," which is now anchored here, proudly call their country's contribution to the United Nations cause in Korea a "production line for surgery."

Seniors and Juniors Hold Open House

Members of the Senior and Junior classes and friends held an open house on Saturday evening following Baccalaureate services at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hifton at Lake Margrethe. Between 50 and 60 attended and enjoyed a buffet lunch the centerpiece of which was a huge four tiered cake in green and white, the school colors. "Farewell to the class of '51" was inscribed on the first layer of the cake with the class motto inscribed on the second. "We will find a way or make one." The top layer of the cake was in the shape of a dome and was topped by a miniature graduate clothed in the traditional cap and gown of grey with a red tassel on the mortarboard cap which carried out the class colors. The evening was spent in dancing and a grand time was enjoyed by all.

Their technicians' viewpoint is, however, not reflected by the approximately 300 patients who fill the hospital ship's beds. They find it more like a merciful paradise.

A typical comment is that of Sergeant Morelli Morelli, of Avignon, a member of the French Battalion, who says that the care he is getting is absolutely the best possible. Sergeant Morelli, recovering from a hand wound, said that he could have gone to Tokyo for treatment but that he asked to stay aboard the "Jutlandia," where he felt everything was perfect.

"And then," he said, "I'll be closer to my battalion. I want to get back to them as soon as possible."

Sergeant Morelli's compatriot, Auguste Hornmoll, of Paris, agreed, but was much more terse in his comment on the ship. "Formidable," was his reply to a question about the "Jutlandia."

Men from all of the 14 countries which have fighting soldiers engaged in Korea under the U. N. flag have been treated on the "Jutlandia," staff officers point out. All receive the same quality of treatment, some of the best that Denmark could offer, the officers declare.

The staff of medical and administrative volunteers numbers 100. The ship has space for 300 patients, more in an emergency. During the first month it spent here, the "Jutlandia" treated some 500 soldiers evacuated from the front lines.

fourth one for emergencies make up the surgery production line. Special sections handle general surgery, thoracic surgery and neuro-surgery cases. A medical section, which includes laboratories for clinical and bacteriological research, and a dental clinic are on the job as well.

The ship's crew is the same that used to bring the "Jutlandia" from Copenhagen to New York on the North Atlantic run and the services are maintained just as if the liner were carrying trans-Atlantic passengers.

"I like the Danish food," testified Cpl. Wayne Woolworth, of Chicago, who was wounded by a shell fragment which struck his wrist after he jumped with the 187th Airborne Regiment near Munsan. Corporal Woolworth also admits that he has learned some Danish from the English-speaking nurses who assist him in one of the four long wards.

Regular Danish food is served the patients, except that a bit more green salad and ice cream is included in the diet. The ship carries enough food to last six months, when it sailed from Copenhagen in January after its three-month-long refitting. It also carries enough medical supplies to last six months. Both will be replenished from Danish supplies as they run out. Down in the wards, patients make international friendships as they begin to get around and up on the decks on sunny days groups of them, almost always including men from many countries, enjoy the air under a mast from which the U. N. flag flies.

"Everybody is very friendly," declares Gunner Donald Neale, of Dunmow, Essex, England, who was wounded while in action with the British 29th Brigade.

The ambulatory patients help keep the wards clean and assist the nurses in serving the meals, if they feel strong enough. After a while both patients and hospital staff members develop a spirit of constant co-operation and mutual respect.

One young American soldier expressed his gratitude for the care he received by having engraved on his identification tag this message: "Please return me to the 'Jutlandia,' if wounded again."

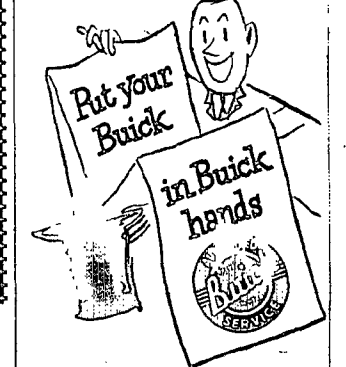

The chief of the expedition, Commodore Kai Hammerich, former head of the Danish Red Cross, declares that "the Danish Red Cross ship 'Jutlandia' is in Korea to support the action of the United Nations in repelling the aggressor. The ship and its work represents the main contribution by Denmark in support of the principles of the United Nations Charter. This is a fact which all of us on the ship feel every day during our work. We have under our care the wounded men of every country which has joined the U. N. action in Korea. We are proud to be able to aid them in any way that we can. And by serving the wounded men, we hope to serve the United Nations honorably and well."
